INTERIM CARE OPTIONS

◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇◇

At Hall & Prior, we understand that finding a place for an older person who is unable to return home following a hospital visit can be challenging. In addition to permanent residential care, all Hall & Prior homes provide interim and respite care to support your client or loved one's recovery through this transitional period.

Interim care and respite care

Interim and respite care are short to medium-term care options that can be arranged at a Hall & Prior home. During their stay, your client or loved one will receive the highest possible standard of health and care services to support their recovery.

- Interim care can be taken while your client or loved one is waiting for a permanent place to become available at the home of their choice. The length of their stay will determine whether their interim care is decided to be respite or permanent.
- Respite care is usually arranged when your client or loved one expects to return home after their stay. This type of care can be taken for a maximum of 63 days in the financial year.

Residential care

Residential aged care is permanent care in a residential aged care home, providing support, health services and quality care to older people who can no longer manage to live at home without help.

Eligibility

All Hall & Prior homes specialise in providing high-level care. To receive care at a Hall & Prior home, your client or loved one will need to be assessed as eligible by an Aged Care Assessment Team (ACAT).
